Guides

Because small variations in printing, folding and trimming can result in shifts of the art of up to 1/16", any art that will print to the edge of the sheet must be extended 1/8", which is the magenta line outside of the page. This is called bleed.

For the same reason, type should be no closer than 1/8" from the trim, and borders should be no smaller than 1/8". This is called safety.

The black line is the page trim.

← The red dashed lines are folds.
